

Niagara Frontier Section

Webinar, Thursday April 30th, 4:30 PM

Bill Barry, NASA Chief Historian “Some Things You Probably Don’t Know About NASA History”

Our world – and our understanding of it – has changed dramatically since NASA opened for business in 1958. As a capstone to the events of the past year commemorating the 50th anniversary of Apollo 11, please join us this month when our guest speaker is NASA’s Chief Historian Bill Barry. Dr. Barry will discuss NASA’s impact in its six decades of existence, where we will be going in the years ahead, and relate some things you probably don’t know about NASA history.

Bill Barry became NASA’s chief historian in September 2010. He joined the agency in 2001 after 22 years in the U.S. Air Force, where he flew KC-135 tankers and served on the faculty of the U.S. Air Force Academy.

---

Please join us on-line Thursday, April 30th at 4:30 PM to hear Dr. Barry present the talk he was originally going to give us in person. See the instructions in the accompanying email for how to join the webinar.

There will be a practice session Sunday, April 26th from 4-4:30 for newcomers to Zoom to connect and ensure they will be ready for Dr. Barry’s talk.